I am a biology major with emphasis in ecology and evolution and a Spanish minor. During my four years at Regis, I was involved in various clubs and organizations including the Honors Program, Tri-Beta (an honor society in biological research), Student Senate, and the Regis Ramblers (the musical theatre performance troupe). In addition to my academic career, I am an award-winning dance teacher and choreographer. I was voted the “Ice Queen” during Snow Week this year.

Although I certainly feel blessed to have attended such a recognized academic university, I believe that it is the people I have met and become friends with at Regis that have made my experience amazing. Professors, advisors, staff and students have become a true Regis family for me. The individual level of attention at a small school has allowed me to grow in immense ways both academically and personally.

I plan on attending graduate school to study Biological Anthropology and will continue to teach dance. As a dedicated lifelong learner, I will continue to carry the lessons learned at Regis with me in my future endeavors.

A reflection by Carlee Taga, RC ’12.