WHAT’S YOUR REGIS STORY?

My Regis journey began when I was recruited to play soccer. I knew that Regis was a good school, but I had no idea how special it would end up being for me. I was an eager 18-year-old ready to live the college life, thinking that four years would last forever. Now, time has flown by and four years has never seemed so fast, but going to Regis has been the experience of a lifetime. Looking back as a graduating senior, I can see the ways that Regis has shaped who I am and who I am becoming.

The best part of going to school at Regis was the relationships that I was able to build. My relationships have extended beyond just other students, to professors, faculty, and of course, the Jesuits. One of my closest friends and most valuable mentors is a Jesuit; who will continue to be a lifelong friend.

Another great thing about my Regis experience was the closeness of the community. My junior year, while preparing for a test, one of my professors had his wife read me the answers to some practice questions while they were on the road for a weekend vacation. This is one story of many that demonstrates the character of the kind of people around Regis, who I deem to be “Regis People.” “Regis People” are caring, compassionate and serve others selflessly.

It has been a privilege to be a student at Regis and a member of Leaders in Service. The values I have learned here will help to guide me for the rest of my life. There truly is no other place like Regis; I’m proud to be able to call Regis home.
